

COUNSELING DEPARTMENT

The Pine Valley Counseling Department Proudly Presents College and Career Week

As you read in April's edition of the Pine Valley Counseling Department's Newsletter, ensuring your child's consistent school attendance is the first step in preparing him/her/them for a successful educational career and the endless possibilities beyond secondary education. You are encouraged to begin the conversation with your child when they are young regarding what educational and career opportunities are available. Certainly, we don't expect our five-year-old to pick a career path and stick to it but allowing for and actively participating in the conversation is powerful. Listening to your child become excited about the prospects and taking ownership in their own destiny is an incredible feeling. Let's continue to work together to instill the love of learning and the rewards of reaching our ultimate educational and career goals.

“Individually, we are one drop. Together, we are an Ocean.”
