“Bullying Prevention and Awareness Week”

Join us in celebrating “Bullying Prevention and Awareness Week” at Pine Valley CSD. We recognize this week every year to have an open conversation about bullying, assertiveness, problem-solving, and self-advocacy. Teaching students how to handle and manage disrespectful peer behavior is key. Having open conversations with students about detection and appropriate reactions is important to helping them manage these situations as they arise. Knowing the difference between what is rude behavior, mean behavior, and actual bullying is vital in helping our children learn how manage it appropriately. Join us in celebrating this theme week and start conversations with your child that can lead to prevention and intervention.

In addition to “Bullying Prevention and Awareness Week” we are also celebrating our sixth-grade students who have been accepted in the CASS (Creating a Safer School) Leadership program. These students applied for this position, sat for an interview, and have stayed after school for training meetings. Their role in the school will be to model our PAWS expectations, assist with theme weeks and other activities, be role models for younger students, participate in classroom activities, and volunteer their time in creating a positive school climate. On Friday 10/28/22, the CASS Mentors will be recognized at our school leadership assembly.
